DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamauchi (JP. Pat. 5-13665).

Yamauchi discloses a method of fabricating a multi-die assembly (Fig. 1, abstract), comprising;

providing a substrate 1; a plurality of bumps 3; attaching at least one active face down base chip 2a to the substrate in electrical communication with at least some of the plurality of bumps;

an adhesive 7;

an active face up stack die 2a; and a wire leads 6.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 23, 25 and 30-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamauchi in view of Rostoker (U.S. Pat. 5399898).

Yamauchi discloses the claimed invention except for at least two active face down base die and at least another stack die over the stack die. Rostoker discloses a multi-chip semiconductor (Fig. 3b and 4a, column 14, lines 40 et seq.) comprising:

at least two active face down base die 404 and 410; and at least another stack die 328 over the stack die 326 (Fig. 3b) to provide a greater power dissipation and a natural convection cooling channel (column 15, lines 11-16). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Yamauchi to justify multiple dies.

7. Claims 21-22, 26-29 and 33-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamauchi in view of Rostoker (U.S. Pat. 5399898) and further in view of Fogal et al. (U.S. Pat. 5,323,060).

Yamauchi and Rostoker disclose the claimed invention except for at least one discrete component to the substrate or the adhesive layer. Fogal et al. disclose a multichip module (Fig. 5, column 3, lines 43 et seq.) comprising :

a discrete component 75 to the substrate 12;

a discrete components 76 and 78 to an adhesive layer 77 to an uppermost chip 85; and a bond wires 44a, 44b and 79-81, wherein the bond wires bonding to the substrate and the chips. Fogal et al. show that discrete components can be added, while it is not specifically pointed out, the discrete component could include a filter (by pass) capacitor (column 3, line 53) which is needed for proper device operation and is not normally formed as part of a chip. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Yamauchi and Rostoker to provide additional necessary components.
